S. P. Engineer Is Sued for Divorce

Portia B. Shreve of Ogden began her suit for divorce this morning in the district court before Judge A. E. Pratt against Edgar T. Shreve, an engineer employed by the Southern Pacific railroad. Mrs. Shreve charges cruelty and inhuman treatment in her complaint.

She sets forth that they were married in Ogden, December 11, 1914, and have one child, Thomas, eight months old. On August 28 of this year, she complains, her husband drove her from home without provocation and since has refused to live with her. Since that time, she complains, it has been necessary for her to seek shelter with her parents.

Since the separation, she sets forth, her husband has supplied her with $100 a month for support of herself and child, but now threatens to deprive her of further allowance, except $10 a month. She explains that Mr. Shreve is paid $300 a month by the railroad company.

Mrs. Shreve asks the court to dissolve the marriage, give award of custody of the child, and order her husband to pay $100 a month permanent alimony. She also asks that the railroad company be restrained from paying her husband during pendency of the case.

Standard-Examiner's Auto Driving Contest Gets Underway Today

Ogden's traffic officers started scrutinizing women automobile drivers this morning on the opening of the Standard-Examiner's contest to find the best women pilots in this city.

Judging will continue this afternoon, Monday and Tuesday.

Next Tuesday night the Standard-Examiner will publish the honor list, which will contain the names of the ten women judged to be the most careful drivers in Ogden. These women are then to appear at the Orpheum theatre box office, Wednesday, after 11 a. m. and by properly identifying themselves are each to receive two tickets to "The Girl in the Limousine," that lovely farce which Manager J. F. Goss will present Wednesday night, November 17.

OPEN TO EVERYBODY.
The contest is open to any woman motorist in Ogden.

All you have to do is to drive around the busiest corners in Ogden's business district and show a proper regard for the traffic regulations. Traffic officers will be watching closely. They will consider ease of handling the automobile, compliance with Ogden's traffic rules, speed at crossings and observance of safety first methods in the handling of an automobile in the downtown district.

So women and girls of Ogden, if you would be guests of the Standard-Examiner with your husband or sweetheart at the Ogden showing of "The Girl in the Limousine," watch your wheel.

Don't get palpitation of the heart when the traffic officer stops you, if you are certain you have broken none of the traffic rules. He will ask you your name and address or telephone number. Probably this will mean that you will be one of the lucky ten.

NO PARTIALITY.
This is a fair-minded contest. There are no strings. There will be no partiality—the woman who drives a "bug" has just as much chance to win two of those tickets as the woman in the luxurious limousine.

Commissioner J. Ray Ward, head of the public safety department, has stationed traffic officers, who will act as judges, as follows:

Saturday—William Dick, Twenty-fifth street and Washington avenue; H. B. Elam, motorcycle officer, entire business district.
Monday—William Dick, Twenty-fifth street and Washington avenue; J. M. Hawkins, Twenty-fourth street and Washington; H. B. Elam, motorcycle officer, entire business district.
Remember, the contest opens today.

DISCUSS PART TIME CLASSES

Milwaukee Educator Confers With Ogden School Officials

Dr. F. T. Cooley, in charge of the part time school work at Milwaukee, conferred with Super. W. Karl Hopkins of the Ogden schools, state representatives and teachers yesterday afternoon on "part time education." Dr. Cooley is touring the west seeking new methods for his school and is also explaining the system used in his state for part time work.

On his visit to Ogden yesterday he was accompanied by E. E. Gault, superintendent of the Murray schools, F. W. Kirkham, state director of vocational training, and I. S. Noall, in charge of trades and industries work in Utah.

Several instructors in part time work in the Ogden schools were present, including F. W. Wiggins, supervisor.

Dr. Cooley discussed the Wisconsin part time law and stated that it had become so popular in that state that a special 12-12 mills had been levied on citizens in 42 of the principal cities of that state, the money to be used for school purposes.

The hours per week in Wisconsin have also been increased, he stated. In the past the students were required to take four hours of studies per week, this now having been changed to 8 hours per week. In Milwaukee alone 110 instructors are employed for this work, which costs more than $260,000 yearly.

SHIPPING BOARD GRAFT REVEALED

'Commissions' Paid Engineers Who Placed Orders for Chemicals

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Testimony concerning "commissions" paid engineers on shipping board vessels by the Ogden schools, state representatives and teachers yesterday afternoon investigation into the board's affairs. Miss Lizzie Moorehouse, accountant and treasurer of the Board-Archer company, manufacturers of chemicals, said such presents were charged up by salesmen as "advertising." Her testimony was corroborated by Albert B. Waycott, employed by the company as a salesman in 1918.

Refreshing her memory from an affidavit which she made in July, 1918, now part of the Walsh committee's records, she declared engineers were paid $10 on each 20-gallon keg sold and $5 for each 10-gallon keg. She said that the commissions amounted to about 10, 15 or 20 per cent of the firm's advertising account.

GATES' CONCERT HUGE SUCCESS

Music Lovers Charmed by Singing of Noted Soprano; Choir Excellent

Lucy Gates, Utah's noted singer, last night at the Ogden tabernacle again demonstrated her powers to hold an audience charmed by the beauty of her voice.

There were several hundred persons in the audience yet at times the clocks on each side of the auditorium could be heard ticking away while at the same time Miss Gates was singing softly and sweetly.

It was really a remarkable demonstration of the vocalist's art. The quality of Miss Gates' voice which has prompted many critics to rank her with the two or three great coloratura sopranos of the present was marked in her performance last night.

DIFFICULT ARIA.
She opened her program with a difficult aria from "The Barber of Seville," a number requiring technique of a high order and a wide range. Her rendition of this number was magnificent.

Then came a group of three excellent songs in English—"Come My Beloved," by Horatio, "There Are Fairies at the Bottom of Our Garden," by Lehman, and "In the Woods," by McDowell.

Her next group of three sweet numbers in French Miss Gates made doubly interesting to her audience by telling the story of each before she sang it.

The Bell song from "Lakme" was given by the singer with her usual brilliance and with a remarkable display of her vocal powers. Then came three more interesting numbers, including "Solveig's Song," which many believe is given at its best when sung by the Utah soprano.

FINALE EXCELLENT

The final number of the program was a fitting climax to an evening of musical pleasure. This was the rendition of the finale to the second act of "Traviata." Miss Gates sang her popular role of Violetta. Nephew Brown of the tabernacle choir sang the baritone role and James Neilson of Salt Lake the tenor role of Alfredo. The tabernacle choir was the chorus. Joseph Ballantyne conducted and Sam Whitaker was the organist. This finale is a remarkably interesting excerpt from the opera and its rendition was very well done. The choir's work brought pride to the hearts of all its friends.

John J. McClellan, was the assisting artist last evening. He played the accompaniments for Miss Gates in his careful manner and in addition gave two organ numbers. The first was the melodious selection from the opera "Mignon" and the second the Boellman suite for organ. This included four parts, designed to show off the beauties of the organ as well as demonstrate the abilities of the performer.

The concert was under the management of Miss Mary L. Jones and was the first of a series proposed for the season.

SHE URGES AMERICAN NAMES FOR AMERICAN ARTISTS

NEW YORK—"American names for American artists" is the slogan for a campaign instituted by the Americanism committee of the Texas department of the American Legion. "Hundreds of American artists equal, and in some cases are superior, to foreigners," says Miss Flora Voorhies of New York. "But they are without engagements because they have plain American names. It is ridiculous that an American should have to change his name to a foreign-sounding one in order to gain success."

Horn books were used as early as the sixteenth century by the school-boys of that day. It took Magellan 25 days to sail through the 325-mile length of the strait bearing his name.
